Emergency 911 received a call from an 89 year old Traverse City woman indicating someone was pounding on the front door of her home. Traverse City Police were dispatched and arrived on scene 38 seconds later. Officer Ryan Taylor parked away from the scene, approached on foot, heard loud banging then observed a male subject kick open the front door to the residence.

Officer Taylor ran into the residence and observed the suspect standing over the victim who was seated in a chair. The officer identified himself as a police officer and gave the suspect several verbal commands which were ignored. The suspect then turned and advanced on the Officer who effectively deployed his Taser. Additional Officers arrived on scene and the suspect was taken into custody.

The suspect, a 28 year old Park City, Utah man was lodged at the Grand Traverse County Correctional Facility. Warrants are being requested for Home Invasion (felony), Resisting and Obstructing (felony) and attempted Assault and Battery (misdemeanor). An arraignment time and date has not been set at the time of this release.

There were no injuries in the incident and alcohol is believed to be a factor.
