More Than Four Race Narrative:

In December of 2019, the Rigan family was thrown into the devastating world of pediatric cancer when they found a golf-ball sized tumor was wrapped around their six month old son's brainstem. He was diagnosed with Grade III Anaplastic Ependymoma, which is an aggressive brain tumor with a poor prognosis. Since then, their little warrior, Conor, has battled this disease with multiple high-risk brain surgeries, chemotherapies, proton and photon radiation therapies and immunotherapy. In May of 2023, Conor's tumor had grown back for the fourth time with a vengeance. It was the first time in their journey that they were told by medical professionals to place him on hospice, provide him with pain medication and let the cancer take him peacefully. But the Rigan family knew his life was worth fighting for and it was not over yet. Instead, Conor was taken to one of the top neurosurgeons and he had a miraculous surgery, walking away unscathed.

It was after this experience that the family realized Conor had exhausted all of the "textbook treatment". If they were going to beat this disease, they were going to need all of the research and testing they could find. One of the largest hurdles in pediatric cancer research is the lack of funding. This is where the idea for the More Than Four Foundation began. Of the yearly government funding for cancer research, only 4% is directed specifically toward all pediatric cancers combined. The More Than Four Foundation believes our children are worth More Than Four percent. They believe that even the smallest warriors can inspire great change. They believe that if they are to save our children, we will need to create awareness of pediatric cancers and treatments, increase additional funding for research and grant support to families impacted by pediatric cancers.

The More Than Four Race is the foundation's first step in raising awareness and funds for research so that no family needs to make the impossible decision to give up their battle. All of the funds will be allocated into two areas of focus. The first focus is to partner with nationally recognized Pediatric Cancer entities to develop promising and innovative research and clinical trials for pediatric brain cancer. The second focus is to support families by providing grants to alleviate costs associated with cancer treatment that is often not covered by insurance companies. The More Than Four Race is focused on providing a fun community event that gets runners together/involved in a great cause. On Saturday September 19th, 2026 runners will gather on Lake Ave for a 9:00am start where they will follow the 5K course through old town and finish back on Lake Ave at Brady's Bar for an after party to support the cause.

Thank you for your consideration in bringing our community together for a meaningful cause!

Sincerely,

Alexis Bremer
